

ALL ARE NOW HUSTLING FOR THAT DIAMOND STICK PIN

Many Men Are Now Busily At Work Adding To The Membership Of The Commercial Club.

You might as well get in the band wagon first as last. You will have to join the Commercial Club sooner or later. These indefatigable canvassers are out early and late and they are each and all securing formidable lists. The rivalry between the men at work is intense. And a dark horse threatens to enter the field, one who says the diamond stick pin offered by President Bowen is in his scarf if he just goes to work. The betting is about even, so far.

M. D. Royce says he is going to win that stick pin if he has to work night and day and go without three squares a day.

J. W. Chambers says they will have to go some if they beat him. His arm is already tired entering names.

F. C. Murphy says it is a downhill pull, that he can't lose. Its an easy pin.

G. Lee Wainseott announces that any man wears that diamond, he is the chosen one.

H. V. Scrivener prides himself on being tall enough to look over the top of the whole crowd; they're all in the rear now.

Jeff Stewart pleads that while he isn't doing much, he can tell you all about baseball. Anyhow he is like the Winchester Club a strong finisher.

J. T. Stokely: Its like my race for Council, easy. Real estate is going up, trade is brisk and he wants to wear that pin at the first meeting of the new Council.

SUMMER GARDEN ABOUT READY

Work on Auditorium is So Far Advanced That It Will Be Opened Saturday Night.

The work which has been going on at the Auditorium for the past month getting it in shape for a moving picture show and summer garden, has about been completed and will be opened Saturday evening.

Dotted With Canvas.

The country is dotted here and there with white stretches of canvas covering the tobacco beds, and from the number of them the coming crop will exceed all previous records of the Blue Grass.

Much of the grass land has been broken and it is said that grazing for stock this summer will be scarce.

The average for the corn crop will be above the average this year, and if a good season prevails, the sale of the product next fall will add much to the income of the farmer.

YOUNG KENTUCKIAN KILLED IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, March 29.—Although the police have worked unceasingly, they have not succeeded in learning the identity of the occupants of the flying automobile that killed Inwood Trimble, the 13-year-old son of R. J. Trimble, a wealthy Kentuckian, in Morning Side Park on Saturday night.

GUNNER ON BATTLESHIP VISITING WINCHESTER.

Mr. James A. Laughlin, of Springfield, Ky., is the guest of his cousin, Maurice Stroud. Mr. McLaughlin was a gunner on the battleship Vermont which was in the cruise around the world. He brought back with him many interesting relics and pictures which he collected from every port at which the ships stopped.

The Merchant Who Advertises Is Working For YOU

The non-advertising merchants of this city do not seek your patronage, your attention or favor—so why should you confer them? The progressive merchants pay attention to YOU, thus deserving to have YOUR attention in return. They are "on their metal" all the time to secure values for you that will stand inspection—that will stand ADVERTISING.

For the fact that he advertises places upon the merchant the necessity to "make good"—to meet live competition—to so wisely buy as to be able to sell to your profit as well as his own. He is placed under a perpetual test—and he must emerge always with your increasing friendship. He must work for YOU—with your approval ever in mind. He must find bargains for you—extra value things for you; he must protect you on styles, on qualities, on prices.

He is enlisted in your service. And the non-advertising merchant is NOT

RULERS OF AUSTRIA AND SERVIA, WHO ARE READY FOR WAR—SERVIAN VOLUNTEERS DRILLING.

News from both Vienna and Belgrade regarding the threatened war between Austria-Hungary and Servia continues of a disquieting nature. It is now believed that only the prompt interference of the other powers of Europe will avert a conflict. Servia is making almost frantic preparations for war, while Austria already is prepared to throw a large force across the border. The action of Prince George of Servia relinquishing his right of succession to the throne has served to further stir up the war party in his country. King Peter can call to his standard about 200,000 men, but such an army could offer little resistance against the legions of Emperor Francis Joseph.

IMPERSONATOR ON WEDNESDAY

Ladies of Christian Church to Present Gilbert A. Eldridge, March 31.

The ladies of the First Christian Church are fortunate in enlisting the services of Mr. Gilbert A. Eldridge, the well-known impersonator, who will appear at the opera house, Wednesday night.

Mr. Eldridge comes to Winchester with a well-known reputation having given his impersonations in nearly every State in the Union, and receiving flattering endorsements as a master in the art.

The speaker presents a widely varied, artistic and popular repertoire of costumed interpretations of a high order changing quickly from humorous to sentimental representations. His line of work reaches all classes, from those who like the subtle humor of good old "David Harum" to the tragedy of "Julius Caesar."

In the last two years he has filled more than two hundred engagements, with scarcely an adverse criticism. Some of his impersonations are: "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," "Josiah Allen," "Shplock," "Samantha Allen," "Enoch Arden," and characters from Sienkiewicz, Dickens and Barrie.

LARGE SALE OF LAMBS IS MADE

J. L. Brown Sells 400 to W. M. Robb at 8½ Cents—Largest Lamb Sale Ever Made in Clark.

Mr. J. L. Brown sold to Mr. W. M. Robb 400 lambs, at 8½ cents, both taken June 15 and July 15th. This is one of the largest and finest lamb sales ever made in Clark county.

MAY VISIT BEREAL IN MAY

President Frost Invited President Taft to Plant a Memorial Tree.

President Wm. Goodell Frost, of Berea, was here Monday morning on his way home from the East. President Frost is sanguine that he will be able to raise the remainder necessary to complete the four hundred thousand dollars endowment for the Lincoln Memorial School for colored people.

Mr. Frost has been so pressed with duties pertaining to Berea College proper, that but little has been done in raising funds for several weeks.

While in Washington, Mr. Frost had an interview with President Taft, and extended an invitation to the President to visit Kentucky, memorial day, May, 30th. It is possible that the President will come and plant a tree on the Lincoln farm. The Taft family have been contributors to Berea College for many years.

R. R. PERRY IS MADE CUSTODIAN OF SITE

Upon Which the Postoffice Building is to Be Erected and Ground Cleared.

The Secretary of the Treasury has appointed postmaster R. R. Perry, custodian of the site upon which the postoffice building is to be erected in this city. The debris of the old church is on the grounds and also the residence of Dr. Shirley, all of which must be removed before anything will be done by the Government.

WOODMEN TO HAVE SMOKER

Twenty Applications For Membership Are Made at Last Meeting of Order.

That Winchester Camp No. 82, Woodmen of the World, has taken on new life was shown at their regular meeting Saturday night, at which four new candidates were initiated into the mysteries of the order, and twenty applications were made for membership.

The attendance was so large at this meeting it was seen that a much larger room would be needed at once and a committee was appointed to secure larger quarters. It was also decided to hold a meeting every Friday night, instead of the second Friday and the fourth Saturday nights of each month, as heretofore.

At the meeting next Friday night the work of organizing a Uniform Rank will be discussed and a large attendance is desired. A smoker will be held after the meeting.

SENDING OUT CENSUS BLANKS

County Superintendent Tanner Mail-ing Required Forms to School Trustees.

County Superintendent C. A. Tanner was Monday mailing to the trustees of the county schools, census blanks on which the trustees must take a census of the county schools during the month of April.

Under the requirements of the new law, the trustees must take a census of both white and colored pupils of the county.

Mrs. Daily Wants $5,000 From Louisville And Nashville Railroad, Alleges She Is A White Woman And Was Compelled To Ride In Colored Coach.

EXONERATES HER HUSBAND

Mrs. Farmer Faced Death in the Electric Chair Bravely and Calmly.

AUBURN, N. Y., March 29.—Mrs. Farmer was executed at 6:14 this morning without any sensational incidents. She faced death bravely and declared her husband innocent.

Belton Owens in his suit against the Central Kentucky Traction Company, alleges that a horse which he was driving in a funeral procession on December 6th last, became frightened at a street car on Main street and owing to the negligence of the motorman, the horse ran off, throwing him out of the surrey, and seriously injuring his right hand and disabling him from using it for three months and asks damages for $1,000.

Against Street Car Company.

Mr. Farmer prepared the statement in the presence of a notary public and Father Hickey, her spiritual adviser. Father Hickey had told the condemned woman that if she could truthfully make any statement that would exonerate her husband she should do so.

Mrs. Farmer replied that she had no desire to make any confession, but that she would make a statement concerning the case. It was, however, at the suggestion of Mrs. Farmer that the notary public was called in.

Facing death with the dawn the wretched woman showed no evidence of collapse, though the last words between herself and husband, separated in their parting interview by heavy bars and an impenetrable screen, were affecting to the two women attendants and the captain of the guard. As the law does not permit it, there was no farewell embrace when the time came for separation.

After the steel door of Mrs. Farmer's cell had closed and James Farmer, weeping, had been led away, the woman fell upon her cot and cried for a few moments and then began to pray. Her attendants did not tell her of the death chair in the next room.

Father J. J. Hickey, pastor of the Holy Family church, visited Mrs. Farmer Sunday and prayed with her.

Shuts Out Opium.

Washington, March 29.—After April 1 next neither opium nor any mixture or compound containing or representing opium in any form can legally be brought into the United States or any of its outlying possessions, except for strictly medicinal purposes. Carrying into effect a law passed at the last session of congress, embodying this restriction, the secretary of the treasury issued regulations in which it is declared the term opium shall cover all of its forms.

Thirty Persons Drowned.

Warsaw, March 29.—The Vistula river has overflowed its banks and flooded 13 villages. Near Demblin, in the province of Redom, a dam collapsed, destroying nine miles of railroad and three villages and drowning 30 persons.

Passenger Train Wrecked.

Atlanta, Ga., March 29.—A Central of Georgia passenger train from Macon to Atlanta was wrecked at Experiment, Ga. A number of passengers were injured.

Roasted to Death.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 29.—By the explosion of the gasoline reservoir, following the ditching of an automobile, James Abrams was roasted to death and G. C. Barco badly hurt.

THE COURT HOUSE.

The order of the Fiscal Court made Saturday authorizing Judge Evans to repaint, varnish and put the court house in first class condition is an important one. The court house is badly in need of these improvements. It is almost impossible to keep it clean in its present condition.

Clark is a rich and prosperous county and it can afford to spend some little money on its public building, especially when we all know that the amount so spent will be judiciously expended.

We believe that public sentiment will justify and support Judge Evans in making a liberal expenditure in seeing that the court house is really put in first class shape.

When these improvements are made and a good fire proof vault is installed we can feel that we have a court house that is really a credit to the county.

BECOME A HUSTLER.

The campaign for new members for the Commercial Club is warming up. A number are hard at work striving to win the diamond stick pin. And the responses so far received are very encouraging.

The Commercial Club is the center of the pushing life for our city. It is the body that originates things, that has its eye always on new ventures for Winchester. It goes out after every new enterprise that can add to the business life of the city.

Do not hesitate when approached. Let the solicitor pin on a blue button. Become one of the "Hustlers" for a "Greater Winchester."

OUR SEWERAGE SYSTEM.

The old bond issue for sewers seems to be dead. There was some question of their legality. Whether they were legal or not, the city is well out of the last bargain.

Now, times are better. Capital is in the market for bonds. Maysville sold school bonds, Paris sold bonds, other towns of Central Kentucky have done the same. And all of them have made the sales at par or better.

If we are going to have a sewer system and we need it badly it is time that preliminary steps be taken to secure a new issue of bonds. We commend the matter to Mayor Hughes and the Council.

LETTERS FROM ALL.

The columns of The News are open to all. If you have anything to say and want to say it, write to the editor. It does not matter whether he agrees with you or not, he will gladly publish it. All he asks is that you give him your name as an evidence of good faith. The name will be used or not as you please.

You do not always approve of the policy of The News. You can say so in these columns if you wish. You think certain improvements should be made in our city or county. Write to this paper about it.

We are publishing a paper for this community. We want to reach all sides of it. We want to improve certain departments. We should like to get at just what our readers want. How can we do this, unless we hear from you.

SEEK ACCOMPLICES

Mercer County Officials on Trail of More Kidnappers.

Mercer, Pa., March 29.—After a week intense with excitement, James H. Boyle and Mrs. Boyle have had one day of rest. It was thoroughly appreciated by them, and while the woman spent the greater part of the time reading, the man indulged himself in the luxury of reading and smoking. He gave the sheriff money with which he purchased a quantity of tobacco and these were dealt out to him at breakfast, dinner and supper.

Mr. McDermott, the retired fireman of Chicago, did not come here to see the woman he alleges answers the description of his missing daughter, Anna.

It is the opinion here that there are three more accomplices to be arrested, and it was reported that efforts have been begun to locate them in this county as well as in Ohio. District Attorney J. M. Lininger, when seen, said he had no information he could afford to give out on this point at present.

Former Judge Samuel H. Miller probably will defend Boyle when his case comes to trial. Boyle has opened negotiations to retain Mr. Miller. As yet his woman companion has secured no counsel to defend her.

On the trip from Pittsburgh the woman made a foolhardy attempt to escape from the train, moving at the rate of 30 miles an hour, but was stopped by a brakeman.

MUCH PLOWING DONE IN MONTGOMERY COUNTY

MT. STERLING, Ky., March 29.—Considerable plowing was done in Montgomery county last week, and farmers hustled to corn ground. The soil is in good shape for work, and if this week is a favorable one ground will be gotten in shape for corn planting. Gardens were broken all over the city and county, and potatoes and onions put in rapidly. Tobacco beds are dug well, and plants sown early are beginning to show. All beds have been sown.

A small amount of oats has been sown, but most of the farmers are waiting until a little later. Hemp-breaking continues, breakers getting $1.10 to $1.25 per 100 pounds. Wheat and rye are doing only fairly well, and the crop in the county, taken as an average, is not up to what it was last year. Corn is retailing at $4.00 and $4.25 per barrel, and there is not an extra large amount for sale, even at that price.

Young clover is not in the best of shape, but a heavy freeze at this time would cause considerable loss.

Break Up Pastures.

The demand for grass is greater than for years, and it looks as if farmers have broken too much soil in their eagerness to raise tobacco. As a result most of them are going to be over-stocked with cattle, and grazing prices are going to be so high that the price realized when stuff is fat (after deducting what the stock cost) will not show much, if any, profit.

Most of the cattle men purchased higher than the market justified. Lambs are selling steadily at from 5 1/2 cents to 6 1/4 cents, with 25 cents per pound to 60 cents for clean wool, and 20 cents for wool full of burs. This is a higher price than last year. W. B. Greene, of this city, has purchased about 3,500 fleeces, believing the prices will advance to 30 cents. Hogs remain high and sell readily.

BERRYMAN NECESSARY.

Pelvic Bone Broken and Other Severe Injuries Received in Accident.

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 29.—Mrs. Charles Berryman was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday afternoon at five o'clock and is reported to be in a serious condition. It developed in the examination that the pelvic bone was broken and that there are other injuries of a severe character. An operation will be performed today with the hope of alleviating her suffering and to make recovery sure. Mrs. Berryman was fallen on by a horse she was riding a few days ago.

CHIEF'S SON IS CAPTURED

Is Strung Up by Neck Until He Discloses Whereabouts of Crazy Snake and His Band of Creek Followers. Trouble Started Last Thursday and Has Already Resulted in Death of Six Men and Wounding of Many Others.

Oklahoma City, Okla., March 29.—Five companies of Oklahoma militia are marching against Crazy Snake's band of Creek Indians, half-breeds and negroes, entrenched in the Hickory Hills, seven miles from Henryetta.

A bloody battle is regarded as inevitable, the heavily armed troops having set out either to capture or exterminate the murderous band, which, since Thursday, has caused the death of six men, the wounding of many more and brought about a condition of terror in Henryetta, Pierce, and all the surrounding country.

Crazy Snake's men number about 200, all armed with modern rifles and plentifully supplied with ammunition. They had been preparing for this for two months, their final stand against lawful authority. They defiantly sent out word that they would fight to the death.

Of course there can be only one outcome to the clash, but it is certain to be a murderous affair, as the militiamen's officers have declared they will shoot to kill from the first.

Crazy Snake is in personal command. This was established by the testimony choked out of his college-bred son by means of a new incrope. Young Harjo was strung up by the determined deputies until nearly dead. Then he gasped out that his father was in command; named the Indian who killed the deputies; told the officials how to trail the band and did everything which a stoical red man is supposed to do when in the hands of his enemies.

On the trip from Pittsburgh the woman made a foolhardy attempt to escape from the train, moving at the rate of 30 miles an hour, but was stopped by a brakeman.

many times with the county officials for the restitution of what he believed to be the rights of himself and his tribe. A notable instance of his efforts in behalf of his band was made at Tulsa, Okla., on Nov. 23, 1906, when he organized a committee of United States senators that was investigating matters connected with affairs in the Indian Territory.

"I am here and stand before you today, my fathers," eloquently pleaded Crazy Snake, "as a man of misery. I am here appealing to you to have the laws carried out."

He recounted the loyalty and allegiance of himself and his followers to the federal government in the civil war. He said that the Indians were not concerned in the question of negro slavery and that none of their treaties was involved, yet because of the sacred compact with the federal government he joined with the latter against the enemies.

"I left my home and my country and everything I had and went rolling on toward the federal army," said the chief with emotion.

"I left my laws and my government, I left my people and my country and my home; I left everything and went with the federal army for my father in Washington. I left them all in order to stand by my treaties."

"I never agreed to the exchanging of lands and I never agreed to the allotting of my lands. I and my people, great masses of them, are enlightened and educated. I am notifying you of those things, because your government officials have told me and my people that they would take care of my relations with the government and I think they ought to be taking care of them as they promised."

The great father said that if any one trespassed on my rights or questioned them to let him know and he would take care of them and protect them. I always thought that this would be done. I believe yet it will be done."

Of course there can be only one outcome to the clash, but it is certain to be a murderous affair, as the militiamen's officers have declared they will shoot to kill from the first.

The purpose of the Agricultural Department is to improve the quality of seed corn. There is a department devoted to this special work.

TWO FAIL TO TAKE THEIR ALLOTMENT

Recent Newspaper Reports Were Exaggerated, Says Executive Committee.

The Executive Committee of the Burley Tobacco Society Friday gave out to a newspaper representative the following concerning the alleged difficulties with the independent manufacturers:

The committee feels that injustice has been done the independent manufacturers as a body in recent newspaper reports concerning the failure of independents to take tobacco allotted by them in the purchase made by independents from the Burley Tobacco Society. It is due to the independents as a body, and to the public that it is made known that only two have failed to receive their allotment. To one of the two was allotted ten per cent of the amount sold to the independents and to the other was allotted only one per cent by the independent purchase—so that only a small part of the entire amount sold to the independents is affected.

"There is no failure or irregularity with any independents except those two."

SOCIETY

Impersonator.
Mr. Gilbert Atlee Eldridge, Impersonator, will be here on Wednesday, March 31, under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society of the Christian church. Mr. Eldridge comes highly recommended, and presents a widely varied, artistic and popular repertoire of costumed interpretations of a high order, changing quickly from humorous to pathetic and from dramatic to sentimental representations.

Lecture-Recital.

The Ladies' Home Missionary Society of the M. E. church South, will present for the first time to a Winchester audience the Kentucky Wesleyan Lecture Recital Male Quartet Company at the courthouse, Tuesday evening, April 6. This will be one of the few remaining times that our people will have of hearing President Taylor, should he decide to leave the city. A crowded house should greet him, not only for what he is and has been to Winchester, but for what he can do as a lecturer.

This combination is receiving very favorable mention from the different places where it has appeared. Already it is receiving calls for more engagements than can be filled. The entertainment consists of a lecture by Pres. Taylor, readings by Prof. Dalgety and selections by the male quartet. This quartet, which is composed of Leland Haines, Glover Williams, Walter Larimer and A. J. Rosser, is doing splendid work.

The proceeds of the lecture recital will be devoted to charitable purposes by the Methodist ladies. It will be a good entertainment given in a good cause by good people.

Two Views of Marriage.

"Two Views of Marriage" was published early in the last century. Married persons are directed to read the lines as they are written; single ones are to read the first and third lines, then the second and finally the fourth in each verse: That man must lead a happy life Who's freed from matrimonial chains;

Who is directed by his wife Is sure to suffer for his pains.

Adam could find no solid place When Eve was given for a mate;

Until he saw a woman's face Adam was in a happy state.

In female faces doth appear Hypocrisy, deceit and pride; Truth, darling of a heart sincere, Ne'er known in woman to reside.

What tongue is able to unfold The falsehood that in woman dwells The worth in women we behold, Is almost imperceptible.

Cursed be the foolish man, I say, Who changes from his singleness Who will not yield to woman's sway Is sure of perfect blessedness.

Little Colonel Readers.

The Little Colonel Readers had a most delightful entertainment, in the form of an amateur performance of "An Imitation Sweetheart" on Saturday afternoon at the home of Miss Julia Gaitskill, on Lexington avenue.

The house is nicely arranged for an entertainment of this kind. The drawing room curtains were drawn and the audience was seated in chairs in the hall. Between acts, Miss Ida Walder rendered some very attractive and catchy selections.

The play was quite a success and the young ladies realized a neat little sum, which will be used for charitable purposes.

After the performance, the girls had their regular program and a delicious luncheon was served.

Cooking Club.

Miss Catherine Hughes had the Cooking Club meet with her, on Saturday afternoon. Games were indulged in until a late hour, when the guests repaired to the dining room and the lunch they had prepared was served in buffet fashion.

Those present were: Misses Marie and Gertrude Bloomfield, Virginia Baldwin, Mary Frances Oden, Dorothy Porter, Elizabeth Stewart, Ora Gaines Allen, Kathleen Earp, Mayme Scrivener, Rosalind Stevenson, Fannie Combs Scott and Elizabeth Beckner.

Sewing Party.

Mrs. V. W. Bush entertained on Saturday afternoon with a delightful sewing party, at the home of her mother, Mrs. John Reese, on South Maple street. The attractive home was lavishly decorated with jonquils and yellow narcissus, and these first of Spring's arrivals were artistically arranged in old fashioned silver pitchers and low silver bowls. During the afternoon a most tempting luncheon was served to the twenty guests. The needle work was very generally laid aside, and the time taken up in reviving "the lost art of conversation."

PERSONALS.

Mrs. B. F. Adcock and two children, of Paris, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Woodward.

Mr. J. Taylor Day and Mr. Charles Hurt, of Hazel Green, are in town, on business.

Mr. J. C. Rogers, of Lousville, was in town Saturday.

Miss Jane Gaitskill and little Miss Rebecca Boswell are in Owingsville, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hampton.

Mr. Charles Duty, of Mt. Sterling, was in town Saturday.

Mr. James S. Winn was in Cincinnati Friday on business.

Mr. and David C. Hunter, of Lexington were the week-end guests Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Hunter.

Mrs. Gleamore Combs and Miss Ethel Combs, were in Lexington, Saturday.

Miss Susan Buckner will entertain at Bridge Tuesday night in honor of Miss Brown, of Boston, who is the guest of Mrs. Ed Clark.

Mr. Charles Ramsey was in Lexington, Saturday.

Rev. Wyatt was in Lexington, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Boswell returned Monday from a visit to Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hampton, in Owingsville.

Mr. Withers Davis, of Paris, was the guest of friends here, Sunday.

Mr. Levi Thomson, who is attending school at Berea spent Sunday here with his parents, Mrs. and Mr. Dave Thomson.

Mr. O. D. Hoskins was in Lexington Monday on business.

Mrs. Willis and Kinnaird, of Lexington, were here Monday to see Mr. Harvey Rogers, whose condition is alarming.

OPERA HOUSE

"The Cry Baby."

But few actors on the stage today can boast of as large a variety of talents as are possessed by Carlton Guy, the well-known young comedian who comes to the opera house Monday night as the star of "The Cry Baby," the new comedy drama which was written especially for him.

In addition to being one of the cleverest character portrayers before the public, Mr. Guy is an artist, whose pen and ink, sketches and water color drawing are to be found in many of the public galleries; a writer of short stories and plays; a chemist of no mean ability, and a horseman and all around athlete. Mr. Guy, however, does not boast of any of these things. When one enters into conversation with him his pet hobby is readily divulged, if one but mentions farming.

Mr. Guy is the owner of a large farm, the pride of which is his apple garden. As a grower of apples, he rivals James Zion, "the apple king," who is also the Independence party candidate for governor of Indiana. Specimens from Mr. Guy's orchards have been awarded prizes at the State Fairs in Kentucky, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, and Missouri. As soon as the theatrical season is ended Mr. Guy hies himself off to his farm where he spends the entire summer hard at work, leaving his theatrical plans for the next season entirely to his manager—C. W. Mercer.

TAFT IN DEMAND

President Is Deluged With Invitations to Visit Communities.

Washington, March 29.—President Taft is being fairly smothered by invitations for visits and speeches in every part of the country during the coming summer.

The president is unable to say at this time just what his plans for the summer will be. His first thought upon entering office was to spend the summer months in travel, making a long tour of the western and Pacific states, with a side trip by steamer to Alaska, one portion of the United States territory upon which he has not yet set foot. But the western trip is held in abeyance by numerous reasons, a paramount one being the matter of expense.

To Mrs. Taft has fallen the task of selecting a summer home for the president's family. So far the only place considered is Manchester-by-the-Sea, a resort near Boston.

Mr. Taft is making no speaking engagements at this time because of the doubt as to the length of time Congress will remain in session.

Famous Physician Dead.

Cincinnati, O., March 29.—Dr. P. S. Conner, one of the most prominent physicians and surgeons in this city, and known to the medical profession throughout the United States, died suddenly from an attack of heart disease. He was born at Westchester, Pa., in 1859. He had served as president of the American Surgical Association of the American Academy of Medicine and of the Ohio State Medical society. Before coming to Cincinnati he served as professor of surgery in the Dartmouth medical school at Hanover, N. H.

No Interest in Castro.

London, March 29.—The report that the British government has been inquiring concerning the intention of Cipriano Castro, the former president of Venezuela, to land at Port of Spain, Trinidad, is not true. The foreign office at present shows no active interest in the movements of Castro. It prefers to await developments.

JOHNSON IMPATIENT

Says Jeffries Must Hurry or He Will

Take on Corbett.

Chicago, March 29.—Unless James J. Jeffries gives Jack Johnson a definite answer as to whether he will fight in ten days, the negro champion will give James J. Corbett a chance for a bout. This announcement was made here during a conference between Johnson and Corbett.

There was no haggling over terms between Corbett and Johnson, the only financial end introduced being the display by Johnson of a telegram from a Melbourne (Australia) syndicate asking them to fight the night before the Melbourne cup day, in November.

Following this statement the commission made definite suggestions, one of which was that a separate anthracite department "would remove some of the serious objections" then existing.

"Other practical suggestions were made. The mine workers have made no move to adopt any of them. By not doing so they have failed to do their part in carrying out the object of the strike commission to establish the relations between employers and wage workers in the anthracite fields on a just and permanent basis.

"The operators have done their utmost to execute the spirit as well as the letter of the commission's award, not only in respect to the direct recommendations, but in improving general conditions. They have taken advantage of the latest inventions for the protection of life, have improved ventilation and drainage, and have sincerely endeavored to make working conditions better both inside and outside the mines.

"In 1906 the mine workers renewed their demand for contract with the operators. In reply the operators quoted the strike commission's report, calling attention to the criticism of the constitution and the practices of the union.

"These and other objections found by the strike commission to such an agreement," said the operators' commission in reply to the mine workers' committee in 1906, "exist today. It is possible for an organization controlling the bituminous and anthracite miners so to shape its course that the bituminous operators can increase wages and recoup themselves by an advance in price through a strike in the anthracite mines."

"Again in 1909, the suggestions made by the strike commission are still disregarded. None of the reforms which it proposed to the mine workers has been put into effect. A complete answer to the demand for recognition of the United Mine Workers is that the strike commission, composed of fair-minded and capable men, decided against it, and that the reasons which they gave for their decision exist now as they existed six and three years ago. It will be an ill day for our industries when the entire supply of coal in the country, anthracite and bituminous, is put into the power of any organization, to do what it will in withholding or curtailing our fuel supply."

"And, if that were not enough," Mrs. Overman Hodge-Lathrop went on, inexorably, "we come here to plead with you and find you hobnobbing with that manly thing, that female lawyer!"

She spoke the word female as if it conveyed some distinct idea of reproach. She was probing another chop with her fork. She had sent the pot of coffee back to the kitchen, ordering the waiter to tell the cook that she was accustomed to drink her coffee hot.

"And now, Morley Vernon, listen to me," she said, as if he were about to hear the conclusion of the whole matter. "If you have any spark of honor left in you, you will undo what you have already done. This resolution must be defeated in the senate to-day; I am down here to see that it is done. We go to the State House after breakfast, and these ladies will assist me in laying before each member of the senate this matter in its true and exact light. As for our rights," she paused and looked at him fixedly, "as for our rights, I think we are perfectly capable of preserving them."

Her look put that question beyond all dispute.

"And now," she resumed, "you would better take a little breakfast yourself; you look as if you needed strength."

Vernon rose. He stood for an instant looking at Amelia, but she glanced at him only casually.

"I suppose, Amelia, I shall see you later in the morning?"

"I suppose so, Mr. Vernon," she said. "But pray do not let me keep you from rejoining your companion." She was quite airy, and lifted her coffee-cup with one little finger quirked up higher than he had ever seen it before.

He went back to where Miss Greene sat, and where his breakfast lay.

"My goodness!" he said, seating himself. "I've had a time!"

"I should imagine so," said Miss Greene.

She was just touching her napkin to her lips with a final air. She carefully pushed back her chair, and rose from the table.

"I beg your pardon," he stammered, getting up himself, "I'll see you after breakfast."

Miss Greene bowed. Then she left the dining room.

CHAPTER XII.

Morley Vernon came out of the dining room in a temper far different from that he had worn when he went in. His breakfast, after so many vicissitudes, was sure to be a failure, though John, striving against fate, had tried to restore the repast to its original excellence by replacing each dish with a fresh one. He affected a heroic cheerfulness, too, but the cheer was hollow, for his experience of men and of breakfasts must have taught him that such disasters can never be repaired.

Vernon, however, had heavier things on his mind. In his new position as knight-errant of Illinois womankind, he had looked forward to this day as the one of triumph; now, at its beginning, he found himself with two of fended women on his hands, and two hopelessly irreconcilable mistresses to serve. He began to see that the lot of a constructive statesman is trying; he would never criticise leaders again.

The lobby of the hotel was filling rapidly, and men with their hair still damp from the morning combing were passing into the breakfast room with newspapers in their hands. In the center of the lobby, however, he saw a group of senators, and out of the middle of the group rose a dark bonnet; the flowers on the bonnet bobbed now and then decisively. Around it were clustered other bonnets, but they were motionless, and, as it were, subordinate.

"Can you tell me who that is?" asked Brooks of Alexander, jerking his thumb at the group.

"Yes," said Vernon, "that's Gem Hodge-Lathrop. She's on her way to the front to assume command."

"Oh!" said Brooks. "I saw something in the papers—" And he went away, reading as he walked.

Vernon looked everywhere for Miss Greene, but he could not find her. The porter at the Capitol Avenue entrance told him that she had driven over to the State House a few minutes before. Vernon was seized by an impulse to follow, but he remembered Amelia. He could not let matters go on thus between them. If only Mrs. Overman Hodge-Lathrop were not in command; if he could get Amelia away from her for a while, if he could see her alone, he felt that explanations would be possible.

He looked at his watch; it was half-past nine; the senate would convene at ten; the resolution would not be reached before half-past ten at any rate; and so he turned to brave

Mr. Overman Hodge-Lathrop again. He turned back into the lobby; there she was, hobnobbing with men; she did not pass from group to group, after the manner of any other lobbyist, but by some coercion he wished he might be master of, she drew them unerringly to her side. Now she had Brafield, the leader of the house, and chairman of the steering committee, and Porter, the leader of the senate. She appeared to be giving them instructions.

She had set her committee on less important game; the ladies were scattered over the rotunda, each talking to a little set of men. When Mrs. Overman Hodge-Lathrop saw Vernon coming, she turned from Brafield and Porter and stood awaiting him. Strangely enough Brafield and Porter stayed where they were, as if she had put them there. And Vernon reflected that he had never known them, as doubtless no one else had ever known them, to do such a thing as that before.

"Where's Amelia?" he asked before she could speak.

"I have sent her upstairs," said Mrs. Overman Hodge-Lathrop, "poor child!"

Vernon wondered why "poor child." "It's really too bad," Mrs. Overman Hodge-Lathrop continued.

"What is too bad?" demanded Vernon.

Mrs. Overman Hodge-Lathrop looked at him pityingly.

"Morley," she said in a vast solemn tone that came slowly up from her great stays, "I can make allowances, of course. I know something of the nature of man; I will admit that that Greene woman is remarkably handsome, and of her cleverness there can be no doubt. I don't altogether blame him."

She paused that Vernon might compare to the fullest her marvelous magnanimity.

"But at the same time it has been hard on poor little Amelia. I saw no other way than to bring her down. You must go to her at once."

She turned toward Brafield and Porter, still standing where she had left them.

"When you have done, I'll see you with reference to this miserable resolution; but that can wait till we are at the capitol. This other matter comes first, of course."

She smiled with a fat sweetness.

"And, Morley," she said, "order two carriages for us at ten o'clock. You may drive to the capitol with us."

And she went away.

Vernon ordered the carriages, and in turning the whole matter over in his mind he came to the conclusion that he must deal with these complications one at a time; Miss Greene, as events now had shaped themselves, would have to wait until he got over to the State House.

CHAPTER XIII.

Vernon found Amelia in one of the hotel parlors, seated on a sofa by a window. She was resting her chin in her hand and looking down into Capito's avenue.

"Amelia," he said, bending over her. "What is it? Tell me."

He sat down beside her, and sought to engage one of her hands in his own, but she withdrew it, and pressed it with the other and the handkerchief in both, to her lips and chin. Vernon glanced about the respectable parlors, maintained in instant readiness for anybody that might happen along with his little comedy or his little tragedy. She continued to look obdurately out of the window.

"Amelia," he said, "aren't you going to speak to me? Tell me what I have done."

Still there came no answer. He flung himself back on the sofa helplessly.

He regretted, on the instant.

"Well," he said, "I don't know what it all means. I've tried to fathom it in the last hour, but it's too deep for me; I give it up."

He flung out his hands to illustrate his abandonment.

"God knows," he suddenly exclaimed, "I was only trying to do something worthy—for your sake!"

Please don't swear, Morley," Amelia said.

He looked up swiftly.

"Well—" he began, explosively, but he didn't continue. He relapsed into a moodily silence. He stretched his legs out before him in an ungracious attitude, with his hands plunged deep in his trouser's pockets. Then he knitted his brows and tried to think.

"I suppose," he said, as if he were thinking aloud, "that you expect some explanation, some apology."

"Oh, not at all," she said, lightly, in the most musical tone she could command.

"Very well," he said, "I wouldn't know where to begin if you did. I'm sure I'm not aware of having—"

CHILD TELLS TALE OF STRANGE VISION

GIRL AT PRAYER IN CHURCH IS GIVEN MEDAL BY FIGURE OF MYSTERIOUS WOMAN.

HER EXPERIENCE IS REPEATED

Supernatural, Some Think, While Others Say It Was Act of Pious Person Who Wished to Reward Her Devotion.

Baltimore, Md.—Has the beautiful vision that thrilled Paris in 1830 been repeated? This is a question in the minds of nearly every one connected with St. John's church, Eager and Valley streets, the school near by and, in fact, the entire neighborhood.

Little Margaret Daley, a pupil of the second grade of St. John's school, while kneeling at the altar of the church, claims to have seen a mysterious woman in black and white, who beckoned to her. The child approached the figure and was handed a small medal, similar to that shown in the vision of the Virgin Mary in Paris years ago.

When Margaret looked up after inspecting the little medal the figure had disappeared completely. The church was so light that the child was certain she had had a vision and was thoroughly aroused. On going to the front part of the building she was seen by one of the priests, who remarked on her paleness.

She said nothing of the vision then, but on reaching home told her mother and older sister Mary, who is a pupil at the school. She was told to give the medal to Sister Mary Vincent, who is in charge of the girls' department of the school. The mother of the little girl, Mrs. C. J. Lowenstein, stated that the medal had been placed in an envelope and laid away in the church in the hope that something might come of it.

"I don't know what to think of the vision," said the mother to a reporter. blessed mother would appear in black, but yet if it was a human being how could she have gotten out of sight so quickly when it was light?

"Margaret has been queer since her birth about seeing things, and I don't I've spent the most miserable week I ever knew, doomed to stay here, unable to get away to go to you, and with this fight on my hands!"

"You seemed to be having a fairly good time," the girl said.

"Now, Amelia, look here," said Vernon, "let's not act like children any longer; let's not have anything so foolish and little between us."

His tone made his words a plea, but it plainly had no effect upon her, for she did not answer. They sat there, then, in silence.

"Why didn't you write?" Vernon demanded after a little while. He looked at her, and she straightened up and her eyes flashed.

He tried to look into her face, but she only turned farther away from him.

Kentucky.

According to the last census Kentucky has a population of 2,147,174. The area is 49,400 square miles; 400 of which is water. The streams within the State, as a rule head in the Southeast and flow in a Northwesterly direction; this fact retarded the construction of railroads and the development of our resources for many years.

The early railroads were built from the East and went over the more level territories North of the Ohio River and South of the Cumberland Mountains. In those days there was only a limited demand for coal and lumber. Now that the demand has increased, it would seem that kind providence has held in reserve our almost inexhaustible utilities until a time when they are most needed by the country. Our supply of timber is limited, but there is enough to last for many years to come.

We have a coal area of over fifteen thousand square miles. Other minerals.

Natural gas and oil, in paying quantities are being developed in many localities.

There are no more bad people in Kentucky than in other States in proportion to population. Good people regardless of politics or religion, are always welcome.

Blue Grass is a natural product. Uncultivated land will set itself in blue grass. Crops of timothy and clover can be raised with profit. Corn, wheat, rye and oats are the grain crops. Tobacco is raised in large quantities.

STARVATION METHOD APPLIED TO OFFICERS

Says Federal Officer Who Went Out to Summon Defendants in Night Rider Cases.

PADUCAH, Ky., March 29.—After a week's trip through four Western Kentucky counties in search of defendants in night rider damage suits in the United States Court, Elwood Neal, Deputy United States Marshal, returned to Paducah with a story of an attempt to drive him out of two counties by starvation.

On the ride through Lyon county he took rider, along as a guide. They were refused meals and feed for horses at every home of a defendant or sympathizer and the first day did not get dinner until 2 p. m.

At that hour they came to the home of a law and order farmer. They had intended to remain over night in the country, but Stevenson's friends advised him to go to a town because there was such strong feeling against him that he would be in danger of a mob. They drove to Princeton.

In Caldwell county, Deputy Neal drove his horses all day without feed and all he had to eat for dinner was what he bought at a country store. He will make another trip here before court convenes, but will go disgruntled.

The negotiation for a compromise of the $100,000 suit of Henry Bennett have been called off by the defendant and they say they will fight it out. The suit will go to trial at the April term.

COLTS AGAIN LOSE TO ROCHESTER BUNCH

Local Team is Defeated By Score of 10 to 1 By Visitors.

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 29.—The local baseball aggregation went down in defeat again yesterday afternoon at the hands of the Rochester bunch by a score of 10 to 1. The ladies put up a strong fight for the honors but were simply out-classed by the Rochester team.

The only score made by the home team was by Perkins, the local twirler, and at no other stage of the game did the Colts have a chance.

SUES BRIDGE COMPANY FOR $25,000 DAMAGES

Wilgus Combs, of Breathitt, Seeks Compensation For Injuries Received.

JACKSON, Ky., March 29.—Wilgus Combs filed suit in the Breathitt Circuit Court Saturday afternoon against the Empire Bridge Company for $25,000 damages for personal injuries while working on the bridge recently erected at Lost Creek, this county, by the defendant company. The accident occurred last December and Combs has been in the Good Samaritan Hospital at Lexington since that time until a few weeks ago.

The petition alleges negligence in the erection of the false or temporary work of the bridge which fell and injured Combs. One man was killed outright in the accident and another, Kelly Hoskins, was crippled for life. Combs alleges in his petition that he is permanently disabled.

Gourley, Redwine and Gourley represent the plaintiff. Blanton, Hovermale and Hagins are the local attorneys for the Bridge Company.

The sale of the Jackson Electric Light and Ice Plant set for today has been called off until the case against the concern can be determined by United States Referee in Bankruptcy Chester Gourley. The claims against the company aggregate $12,000. The case will be tried in April.

MRS. CHARLES S. REES PAINFULLY BURNED

Was Cleaning Some Goods in Gasoline and An Explosion Occurs.

Mrs. Charles S. Rees was painfully burned about the hands and arms by the explosion of gasoline Monday afternoon. Mrs. Rees was cleaning some goods with gasoline and washing them in hot water and before she knew it the gasoline exploded enveloping her in flames. She was at a loss as to the cause as she said there was no fire in the room. The wounds thought painful, are not thought to be serious.

The room in which she was working caught fire from the explosion and the fire department was called out. After a few moments the fire was extinguished. The damage to the house is small, fully covered by the powers.

Both young and old will enjoy the lecture at the opera house Wednesday night, March 31st. Tickets on sale Monday, at the Martin-Cook drug store. 2-27-It.

BANKER RACES AGAINST DEATH

Loser by Narrow Margin of Twenty-Eight Minutes—Speed Record is Broken.

Chicago, March 29.—Frank L. Vanderlip, president of the National City Bank of New York, broke all American railroad records, according to statements made by the New York Central officials, in an effort to reach the bedside of his dying mother here, but he lost the race with death by exactly 28 minutes.

Mr. Vanderlip in a special train covered the distance from New York to Englewood, a suburb of this city, in 15 hours and 5 minutes, and when he leaped madly from the train he was met with the announcement that his mother, Mrs. Charlotte L. Vanderlip, had died. The strain of the past day caused the big man to almost collapse.

When Mr. Vanderlip received word from Chicago that his mother was near death, he immediately ordered the New York Central to supply him with the fastest special train at its command. The notice was short, but the company had a train ready to leave New York in a few minutes. The train consisted of four coaches, and the most powerful engine which could be secured in that short time. The train crew were the only persons carried besides Mr. Vanderlip, but it was necessary to add three extra coaches to give the train the proper weight for making such high speed.

Mr. Vanderlip's train was given the right of way over everything on the line. The road officials expected to cover the distance in 18 hours, but such a performance as was accomplished was beyond their wildest dreams.

The run from New York to Buffalo, 440 miles, was covered in 399 minutes, which included a three-minute stop for change of engines. This was a wonderful performance, but Mr. Vanderlip was crying for more speed. He had received discouraging word from the bedside of his mother and was nearly frantic.

The distance from Buffalo to Cleveland, 183 miles, was covered in 163 minutes. The engineer threw the throttle wide open and the miles slipped by at a dizzy pace. Leaving Cleveland the special covered the 108 miles to Toledo in 116 minutes. This was the slowest stage of the mad dash across the country.

The last 95 miles from Elkhart to Englewood, were eaten up in 92 minutes. Mr. Vanderlip left the train at Englewood, which was the nearest station to his mother's house.

AGREEMENT REACHED

Diplomats Avert Clash at Arms Between Austria and Servia.

Vienna, March 29.—A complete agreement has been reached by the powers with regard to the steps to be taken at Belgrade on the basis of the proposals made by Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, to Baron Von Aehrenthal, the Austro-Hungarian minister of foreign affairs, for the settlement of the difficulty between Austria and Servia.

The representatives of the powers at Belgrade today advised Servia to make a declaration to the administration at Vienna, supplementary to the Servian note of March 14. In this note Servia referred Austria to her previous note to the powers, dated March 11, and in the latter note Servia, while withdrawing her demand for compensation, and setting forth that she did not desire to provoke war, still maintained that the question of the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina should be regulated by the powers.

Fatal Fire.

Cisco, Tex., March 29.—Fire destroyed the opera house, the merchandise store of Mayhew & Company and the residence of L. Childs. Bert Strickland was killed by a falling wall. Fireman Henry Benham, J. B. Paterson and William McGuire were seriously injured. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

Washington's Governor Dies.

Paso Robles, Cal., March 29.—Governor Samuel G. Cosgrove of Washington died here suddenly of Bright's disease. Only a few hours before his death he seemed to feel better, and remarked that he hoped to soon be able to return to Washington and take up his duties as governor.

Launch Goes Over Dam.

Richmond, Va., March 29.—A triple tragedy occurred in Dan river, at South Boston, when a pleasure steam launch, owing to high water, was washed over the dam. Joseph Bane, Easley Owens and James Clark, aged 36, 14 and 16 respectively, were drowned.

Too Much Gravity a Bad Sign. There is a false gravity which is a very ill symptom; and it may be said that as rivers which run very slowly have always the most mud at the bottom, so a solid stiffness in the constant course of a man's life is a sign of a thick bed of mud at the bottom of his brain.—Saville.

NEXT SESSION IN THE SOUTH

National Irrigation Congress May Decide to Have 1910 Meeting Somewhere South.

SPOKANE, Wash., March 29.—Delegates from the Southern States to the meeting of the National Irrigation Congress in Spokane the second week in August, probably will make a concerted effort to have the 18th session of the organization take place somewhere in the South.

James Cosgrove, of Charleston, S. C., secretary of the sanitary and drainage commission for Charleston county, intimates this in a letter to Arthur Hooker, secretary of the local board of control of the 17th Congress. He says:

"I would like to have you think over the proposition to have the sessions after the Spokane meeting somewhere in the South. Personally, I believe Charleston would be the right place an all have doubt that our people would arrange to entertain the delegates royally."

Mr. Cosgrove says that it will be a pleasure for him and the residents of Charleston to take up with their representatives in Congress, the matter of the invitation to the president to attend the Congress in Spokane, adding:

"I trust we will be able to have President Taft attend the sessions, as I recognize it will be of inestimable benefit to all who attend to have him deliver an address."

Regarding the reference to having 1910 Congress in the South, Mr. Hooker said:

"The proposition submitted by Mr. Cosgrove is a novel and an attractive one, and if formally presented to the Congress by our southern friends, I am of the opinion that the delegates would give it every consideration."

HANSFORD JETT IS DOING WELL AS PAGE

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Jett Receive Commendatory Letter From Friends.

A letter to Mr. and Mrs. Sam Jett from Washington reports that their son, Hansford, who is a Page in the lower House, is doing well. The letter is from Mr. and Mrs. Hammerly, the home where Hansford boards.

Mr. and Mrs. Hammerly belong to old Virginia stock and are fine people. Their report of Hansford is all that the fondest parent could desire.

RECEIVES HER STATE TEACHER'S CERTIFICATE

Miss Adelaide Stevenson Gets State Certificate, Also Salary

For 1907-8.

Miss Adelaide Stevenson, of this county, has received from the State Superintendent, J. G. Crabbe, her State certificate. This certificate was held up on account of the complaint of Mr. Charlie A. Tanner, County Superintendent of Clark county. Superintendent Tanner wrote a letter to the State Superintendent and for the writing of which Miss Stevenson was awarded five thousand dollars damages on the ground that such letter was libelous.

On the issuance of her certificate Superintendent Tanner paid Miss Stevenson's salary for teaching in the public schools for the year of 1907-8 which salary had been held up by him for a year.

The delivery of the certificate is regarded as a complete vindication of Miss Stevenson and she will again teach in this county; in all probability in the school that she has taught for the past five years.

Feasted Two Days and Nights.

Commander Peary and his party, returning famished from their futile dash for the pole in 1906, slaughtered a herd of seven musk oxen on Hazen Island, off the extreme north of Greenland. For two days and nights thereafter they crouched inside their snow huts, eating continuously, and when they had finished, the pile of bones outside was "as high as a tall man's chin."

Don't Know How to Live. There are people who go about the world looking for slights, and they are necessarily miserable, for they find them at every turn, especially imaginary ones. They are morally illiterate for they have never learned how to live.—Henry Drummond.
